General

The G2K Day/Night Camera uses a high quality 380 TVL resolution color camera. The 1.0lux light sensitivity produces excellent color images. During very low light conditions the black and white camera will activate with its Military Third Gen Night Vision Tube. The unit is encased in a weatherproof housing designed to integrate immediately with either the Guardian 2000 recording system or the G2K Wireless Video Transmitter.

Pre-Operation

1. Read this manual thoroughly!
2. Plug the gold (video) connector of the camera to the gold (video) connector of the Guardian 2000 recording system.
3. Plug the black (power) connector of the camera to the black (power) connector of the Guardian 2000 recording system.
4. The camera is now powered and the video image from the camera should appear on your set-up monitor. Power the Guardian 2000 on using the POWER switch.

Operating the G2K Day/Night Camera

- The Day/Night Camera is designed as a “plug and play" camera.
- It utilizes military third generation night vision technology by ITT Industries.
- The camera is capable of identifying a target suspect from 40—50 feet away.
- The Day/Night Camera utilizes ambient light, do not place under heavily wooded areas or similar conditions as the camera will be less effective. Do not cover up the top (day) camera, it will leave the Day/Night camera in night vision mode.

Tips for the G2K Day/Night Camera

The G2K Day/Night Camera utilizes proprietary software to distinguish between day and night modes. The default mode uses the Color camera. However, when night falls the camera, using smart-technology, automatically switches to night vision mode.

The camera uses light-amplifying technology. This technology takes the small amount of light that's in the surrounding area (such as moonlight or starlight), and converts the light allowing you to see an impressive nighttime view even when it's really dark.

Remember, a bright image on the night vision tube will BURN the image onto the tube and will cause severe damage to the camera or it will simply cause the camera to switch to day mode.
